BPWS tables demo grant for 707 Walnut

Sale to Cornerstone pending

BY BOB DEMAREE
With a house at 707 Walnut Street earmarked for a PACE grant demolition, Jan Vetthus announced at Monday's meeting of Madison's Board of Public Works and Safety (BPWS) that Cornerstone Society has a purchase agreement to buy the property from Scott and Mariella Axline with a closing date set for Sept. 27.
The board had tabled a request for a four-month extension on a PACE dangerous structure demolition grant on Sept. 6, after Vetthus, president of the board of directors for the Eleutherian College and a Cornerstone board member, said the structure might be of historical significance related to the underground railroad and should not be demolished.

Mariella Axline said she and her husband have restored many homes but "this one was not fixable" due to its poor condition. She asked for the PACE extension just in case the sale to Cornerstone does not go through and BPWS voted unanimously to once again table the extension until after the sale is finalized.

Vetthus reported on new research she has done on the structure related to the underground railroad. She said 707 Walnut Street has been discovered to be the actual property of William Anderson, one of the major underground railroad conductors in Madison and the nation, which Vetthus said has been proven by tax and title records. "We are fairly confident that at least the original part is in fact a building by William Anderson," she said.
Vetthus had requested permission for Hanover College professionals to go onto the property to date the wood in an effort to determine if the foundation and floor joists were possibly constructed by Anderson. "We were not allowed on the property and agreed to buy it as is," she said. "We definitely want to move forward and our plan as soon as we get title to the property we have people lined up to do the dating and the inspection, and put together a plan on how much can be restored."

Vetthus said Cornerstone is working closely with Indiana Landmarks on the property. She also has expectations that the National Park Service will visit Madison to look at the property. "We've got to do this right and we've got to do it quickly," she said.

She said since 707 Walnut is "a very small house" preservation contractors are "very excited. It's a doable project." She said the plan is not to make it a museum but to turn the property back into a small, livable space.
Madison Mayor Bob Courtney asked Vetthus to clarify that Cornerstone's effort will involve taking the responsibility to repair the structure from its current unsafe status to one that is safe. She said that is the plan and noted "what we don't want is to have it remain in its current status for a very, very long time without a plan."

Subcommittee turns focus to hiring needs assessment firm

BY BOB DEMAREE
With a community coordinator now in place to spearhead developing a residential treatment facility for Jefferson County, the subcommittee charged with that work met Thursday to consider hiring a firm to do a community needs assessment.
Michael Hicks, hired in late August to organize the efforts of the residential treatment group that's been meeting for more than 18 months, said his goal is to present proposals from vendors to do the community needs assessment at the group's Oct. 20 meeting.

Michael Hicks

"I think this needs assessment is so important to give us a beginning of where to go, really important we get the best needs assessment we can afford in our county," Committee member Jim Crone said. "I think it's crucial to get some sense of everything that's going on — that information we need in order to take the next step in having this excellent facility."
Lauren Perryman, senior vice president of recovery services for LifeSpring Health Systems, suggested collecting data in several areas from the substances that are being based in the community, to the local rate for overdoses, the rate of hospital visits related to substance use and abuse as well as medical conditions related to substance abuse. The study should look at the community's death rates and arrest rates related to substance abuse as well as instances where local residents must travel out of county for mental health related needs.
Jim Courter, who with Jefferson County Commissioner Ron Lee, created the subcommittee that's been working towards the residential treatment facility, expressed urgency for moving forward. "Let's get something going now for the people out there now and then build on that," Courter said. "In terms of expense, needs assessment, how do we know how big that needs assessment needs to be? We have a drug problem in this community" it's urgent that something be done sooner than later.
"I appreciate and I share with you the feeling we need to move rapidly for folks right now, but I also think we need to take some due diligence and do a comprehensive study to present to the public with empirical data that will support whatever we decide to do, whether it's in the near future or whether it's in the later future," Hicks said. "You can't go on gut feelings sometimes although it may be right there in front of your face. I always found in the past it's better to have those numbers to support your feelings."

Coordinator Hicks eager to make difference

BY BOB DEMAREE
For Michael Hicks, being able to serve as the community coordinator for bringing a residential treatment facility to Jefferson County is an opportunity to "do something good" to address the high rate of substance abuse in the area.
Hicks began serving in that position Aug. 22 after being selected by the Justice Reinvestment Advisory Council (JRAC) from a field of 30 applicants. He was formally hired by the Jefferson County Commissioners at their Aug. 18 meeting with the position funded by a $112,000 Community Coordination Grant awarded in March.
For more than 18 months, a residential treatment facility subcommittee has been meeting monthly to deal with the high rate of substance abuse in Jefferson County. As coordinator, Hicks will now lead those meetings and organize the efforts to bring a residential treatment facility to Jefferson County.
"The goal from my perspective is to help establish a strong need for the residential facility and hopefully that will provide the background and the impetus for the Commissioners to move forward from there," said Hicks.
A retired educator, Hicks said he became more interested in substance abuse issues when a young man he knew tragically died of a drug overdose last summer. "It just had a personal impact on me," he said, noting the death refocused him on a problem he was already aware.

Jason Cranney, executive director of Jefferson County Court Services, said developing a quality needs assessment can benefit the county in terms of the caliber of residential treatment facility that could be in Jefferson County. Cranney said he's written many grants and, based on that experience, the amount of funding, the number of staff and quality of people that can be staffed "will increase the number of people we are able to help dramatically with a quality needs assessment. Even if done in the past, those surveys

Motorcycle rider from Carrollton dies after crash

BY THE COURIER STAFF
A Carroll County man died Saturday from injuries he sustained in a motorcycle accident on US 42 in Trimble County.

The crash occurred late Saturday morning on US 42 near Sulphur-Bedford Road just west of Bedford, Kentucky, when a motorcycle being operated by Robert Stewart “Rob” Wilson Jr., 46, of Carrollton, crashed.

Kentucky State Police with the Campbellsburg Post investigated the accident but their report is still pending. However, sources say Wilson was transferred from the scene by ambulance but died en route to an area hospital and was actually pronounced dead in Henry County.

The crash and ensuing investigation closed US 42 to traffic for several hours.

Funeral arrangements for Wilson are pending at the Tandy-Eckler-Riley Funeral Home in Carrollton.

A day earlier in Indiana, a two vehicle crash in rural Jennings County resulted in fatal injuries to a Ripley County man on Friday afternoon.

An initial investigation by the Indiana State Police-Versailles Post Crash Reconstruction Team indicates that at approximately 4:30 p.m., a 2000 Jeep Grand Cherokee being driven by Jessica R. Parsons, 40, of Butlerville, Indiana, was traveling eastbound on County Road 650 North near County Road 575 East. For an unknown reason, Parsons’ vehicle left the right side of the roadway, she overcorrected, causing the vehicle to return to the roadway and travel into the path of a westbound 2007 Pontiac G6 being driven by Christian P. Scholar, 39, of Versailles, Indiana, and the vehicles collided in the westbound lane of the road.

Scholar sustained fatal injuries in the collision. He was pronounced deceased at the scene by the Jennings County Coroners Office. A passenger in Scholar’s vehicle, Whitney Scholar, 18, sustained serious injuries in the crash, and was flown to University of Cincinnati Medical Center for treatment of her injuries. Parsons was transported to St. Vincent Jennings Hospital in North Vernon, Indiana, for treatment of non-life-threatening injuries.

The investigation is ongoing. Toxicology results on both drivers are pending at this time. Speed may be a contributing factor in the crash.

The Indiana State Police were assisted by the Jennings County Sheriffs Department, Butlerville Fire Department, Jennings County EMS, Jennings County Coroners Office and Stat Flight Medical Helicopter.

are now out of date. They are not going to accept those surveys. They are going to want something recent that’s going say these are our needs now in our community” with present-day data to present to convince organizations “our community needs this because the numbers say so.”

Keith Howard, coordinator of Healthy Communities Initiative, pointed out that even as the subcommittee has been considering the need for a residential facility in Jefferson County there are nearby counties that also have needs. “Switzerland County is right next door with even fewer resources and coming here to do things. Do we need to account for that” and other nearby counties such as Trimble?

Cranney agreed that the surrounding counties should be part of the needs assessment. “If you open up this kind of facility, too, you can’t just take into account your own county because once there is a facility, there are going to be other counties around you like Switzerland that are going to be interested in sending to us because it’s the closest facility that they have also.”

“What we need is the data for our community and the surrounding areas, and then for it to be projected out,” Hicks said.

Howard said the needs assessment should also strive to look 20 years into the future. “The consultants may come back to say to start off with supporting a 24-bed facility and that would be good, but in 10 years you’ve got to have a 48-bed facility,” then it would be important to know that. “I am not suggesting we build a 48 bed for the future, but if we can support a 24 bed now we do that, knowing full well that when we design the building we have everything in place that we can add the next wing when we need to.”

Howard referenced the new Jefferson County Sheriff’s Office and Criminal Justice Center now under construction for $43 million because the current downtown jail next to the Courthouse had grown so overcrowded — much of which could be attributed to narcotics-related arrests — that the state stepped in to require action. “If we don’t do things now, then in another 20 years we’ll be spending much more than that on another new jail. We need to address this,” he said.

Mark Overton, a county resident attending the meeting, pointed out that by addressing local substance abuse issues, the community could also see fewer other types of crime. “A lot of it is people are doing things that they ordinarily would not consider to maintain a habit,” Overton said. “I can see where we could actually look at a reduction in crime as more people become acceptable productive citizens as opposed to leaches on the system that we have to chase after. So, I think the benefits are far larger than what would appear at first blush.”

HICKS

When Hicks realized the county needed a community coordinator, he knew that was “something I could become invested in, and make a real impact and a difference in the community.”

Hicks served as principal at Southwestern High School for three years beginning in 1995. He then went to Bullitt County, Kentucky, to serve as assistant superintendent, and retired from there after more than a decade. “I’ve been doing some consulting work with different organizations since then,” he noted.

Hicks has lived in Hanover for 27 years, remaining there even after he began working in Bullitt County. He said a big part of the reason his family didn’t move is that he wanted stability for his children who were still in school. However he also noted that his family “really enjoyed the community” and wanted to stay.

As a longtime Jefferson County resident, Hicks said he’s committed to bringing a residential treatment facility to Jefferson County because of what such a facility can do to address the substance abuse problems in the county. “I feel like it’s an important project and a desperate need for the community,” he said.

He said he has been aware of substance abuse issues locally because of his involvement with youth as an educator. “I have known lots of kids, and have known unfortunately where substance abuse and addiction has caused some negative impacts on their lives,” he said. “We’re always hoping that things will change, but we’re still on a road to making sure young people are aware of the issues. I hope at some point in time some of our project will be working with young people, and identify issues that we can help them avoid.”

He noted that research has indicated that residential treatment facilities are more effective in dealing with helping address substance abuse issues than treatment as outpatients.

Hicks is now working towards a comprehensive assessment of the substance abuse issues and the need for a residential treatment facility in Jefferson County. Proposals are being sought from firms to conduct the community needs assessment for the residential treatment facility that focuses on legal matters, health-related factors and community perception. The anticipation is that legal and health related data could be extracted from available sources while community perception could involve interviews, surveys and more. The time frame for the completion of the needs assessment would be by the end of November or sooner if possible.

Once the needs assessment is completed, Hicks said “we would hope they would provide some recommendations that would lead to the physical facility and then also the operation of the physical facility.”

“I think that now the project will pick up a lot of steam to get a lot more done with Michael on board,” Jason Cranney, executive director of Jefferson County Court Services said. “We now have somebody in a full-time position being sure this is being taken care of” that will “push this forward in the right direction.”

“We’re just excited about what the future holds for us,” Hicks said.

Mr. James “Jim” Lee, age 89, of Madison, Indiana, died peacefully and comfortably on Sunday morning, September 18, 2022, in his residence at River Terrace Health Campus in Madison, surrounded by family members. Born March 6, 1933, in Burkesville, Kentucky, to the late Chester Lee and Lone Gray, Jim was preceded in death by his spouse of 58 years, Ruth Joanne Lewis, who died in Madison on December 21, 2011, at the age of 79. They were married on October 10, 1953, at Our Lady of Solitude Catholic Church in Palm Springs, California, and would give birth to eight children. Jim served in the U.S. Air Force from January 1952 through June 1956, stationed at Bolling Air Force Base, U.S. Headquarters Command, in Washington, D.C., after graduating in 1951 from George Washington High School in Indianapolis, Indiana. He excelled in athletics and earned eight high school varsity letters in basketball, football, and baseball, and was named MVP in baseball. He later earned four varsity letters in baseball and was named MVP at Hanover College in Hanover, Indiana, where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1961 and was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity. Jim subsequently earned a Master's in Education degree from Indiana University. Jim and his wife Joanne and their young family first moved to Madison in 1961, where he taught Biology, Economics, and Physical Education at Shawe Memorial High School and coached basketball, baseball, track, and cross country for eight years. He returned to Indianapolis in 1969 to take a position at Brebeuf Preparatory School as basketball and baseball coach and Physical Education instructor. Following an eight-year tenure at Brebeuf, Jim returned in 1977 to the town he loved most to take the position of basketball coach and Health & Safety instructor at Madison Consolidated High School. In 1981 he became the Director of Athletics and was named Indiana High School Athletic Administration (IHSAA) District 4 Athletic Director of the Year in both 1995 and 1998. He was also a small business owner during a portion of this period, operating an athletic clothing and sporting equipment store for several years on Clifty Drive on the Madison Hilltop. Jim retired from his professional engagement in education and athletics in 1998 following 37 years of service as a teacher, coach, and administrator. Upon his retirement, Indiana Gov. Frank O'Bannon named Jim a “Sagamore of the Wabash” for his “Humanity in Living, Loyalty in Friendship, Wisdom in Council, Inspiration in Leadership” and Kentucky Gov. Paul E. Patton named him an honorary “Kentucky Colonel.” In 1999 he entered local politics by seeking a seat on the Madison City Council representing the 4th District. He won the seat and was elected to a total of four terms, retiring on December 31, 2016, after serving for 16 years. Jim served six years on the Jefferson County Tourism Board, four years on the Board of Public Works and Safety, three years on the Madison City Plan Commission, and as chairperson of the Steering Committee for the Jefferson County Retail Market Study. He served as a board member for the Jefferson County Animal Shelter for three years and eight years on the Public Video Service Board. Recognized as a conscientious, responsive, thoughtful, and well-prepared City Councilmember, Jim was most proud of his multi-year effort in successfully legalizing the use of golf carts for transportation on city streets that became law on January 1, 2010. Jim was an avid golfer, enjoyed traveling, loved spending time with family and friends, and always felt at home in the community of Madison.

GRANT

“Blight is a cancer that erodes the vitality of our neighborhoods and working together with historic preservation advocates, investors, and homeowners is the only way we will ensure that Madison’s future is as historic as its past,” he said.
Courtney said it’s important to be able to “restore neighborhoods back into what they once were, and that is why we are so focused on what is the plan because transferring this property ownership doesn’t change the status of the property.”
Courtney also noted that the Georgetown neighborhood, which is where the 707 Walnut Street property is located, “is very important to us. We have created a targeted revitalization area there. We are directing investor capital and PACE program money to that area. We probably have a disproportionate number of unsafe and nuisance properties. We want to work with everyone to be sure this is a good neighborhood for everyone.”

Vettrhus noted there is work going on now to document the Georgetown neighborhood. The area is important to both Madison’s past and its future. “That neighborhood is what got Madison on the National Historic Landmark District,” she said, noting hope for that property “is very exciting. The national spotlight is going to be on us.” She added it’s property that was missed by people for years for its historical significance. “Madison is going to get a lot of attention.”
According to Vettrhus, Cornerstone would not have been made aware of the historical significance of 707 Walnut if not for another property owner reaching out for help in dating her property. “In was in that process, we found that we got it wrong 20 years ago.”
Vettrhus said if it is determined that the structure is not salvageable then it will be torn down, and “we’ll figure out some creative way so that people know that the foundation, original floor joists are part of William Anderson’s legacy to the town.” However, she said none of that will be known until the professionals are able to inspect the structure and make a determination of what can be done. “They are ready to go as soon as we get the title,” she said. “They are the people with the expertise and the excitement.”

City Attorney Joe Jenner said even though the property may change ownership, it’s status remains as an unsafe structure pending improvements to change that status.
Debra Beeman, who lives next door to the property at 709 Walnut St., said if improvements are made in a timely manner she can be supportive of the plans Vettrhus has for the property. However, she noted that past owners have allowed the property to decline with no improvements, so she was “overjoyed when the Axlines announced plans to tear it down and build a new structure.”
“I run the kids off, I run the addicts off, I am always dealing with some kind of stuff that I shouldn’t have to deal with,” Beeman said, noting that abandoned properties are hangouts “for all the hoodlums. Kids want to go in them. It’s so dangerous there. I love

Madison but it’s a lot of pressure and stress to live there.”
Beeman said she is also supportive of historic preservation. “I love history. That’s why I moved to Madison from Kentucky,” but when structures get in such poor condition they can be beyond repair. “You should not own a building and let it fall apart. I don’t care if it’s historical or not.”

“I totally appreciate the stress you’ve had to deal with,” Courtney said, referencing a murder that took place two doors from hers. “The stress of this house of being vacant” and issues that have occurred there are

“why we have policies, programs and funding to bring neighborhoods back up to being vibrant.”
Courtney noted that while the board is tabling the PACE extension, “we are really going to hold the purchasers accountable for having a plan of restoration, and it can’t just be passage of time.”

BE THE NEXT BLACK BELT IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

David Campbell

Madison players celebrate after beating Jennings County 49-27 in the Battle of the Railroad game on Friday at home.

Second half offensive explosion carries Madison to 49-27 victory

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Madison finally showed the kind of team coach Leroy Wilson expected all along with a dominating 49-27 win over rival Jennings County in the annual Battle of Railroad game Friday at Cub Field.

The Cubs shrugged off a first half plagued with turnovers, poor tackling and bad execution to play arguably their best half of football in more than a season, scoring 28 unanswered points over the final two quarters to blow open the game and take back the coveted Railroad Trophy presented in the series.

“I had no adjustments at half-time. I came in and said, ‘You just clean it up, and everything else will take care of itself,’” Wilson said. “The second half is the story. If we do our job, and no one has a brain fart, that’s what it looks like. That’s what it looks like no matter who is on the field with us.”

Madison (2-3) trailed 19-7 midway through the second quarter largely due to its own mistakes. A fumbled snap led directly to Jennings’ first touchdown and the Cubs’ inability to stop the run led to three other scores. Madison was able to block an extra point — something that it has gotten incredibly good at doing this season — but did little else right.

All of that changed in the second half. Trailing 27-14 at the half, Madison pulled to within six on Colin Yancey’s 27-yard touchdown run and took the lead just a few minutes later when the Cubs forced a turnover on downs deep in Panther territory and Yancey ripped off an 18-yard score to push Madison ahead 28-27.

The two quick scores shifted the momentum firmly into Madison’s side of the field and the Cubs never relinquished it. Van Skinner had his own long touchdown run — this one for 48 yards — early in the fourth quarter before quarterback Darius Jay got into the act with a 34-yard keeper around the right side to give Madison a 42-27 lead.

Jennings finally broke up the scoring run with a touchdown of its own late in the game, but Skinner ripped off a 43-yard scoring run and kicker Clint Hearne hit his seventh extra point of the game to cap the scoring 49-27.

For Wilson, the second half explosion was his team finally figuring out what it needed to do to be successful after four weeks of being stuck in neutral.

“It’s great when you see different guys making different plays. It wasn’t just one guy. It wasn’t just two guys. I mean, we had guys all over the place making plays,” Wilson said. “Jake Dyer, holy cow. For that kid to come out here and block the way he did in the second half, it says a lot about this team. That’s a sophomore team captain saying ‘this is team ball and I don’t care what I have to do, we’re gonna win this game’ and it was just tremendous. They played together, which has been our motto all season long.”

Madison finished the game with 332 total yards offense, most of which came on the ground. Skinner had a career-high 130 yards on 11 carries and two touchdowns while receiver Yancey, forced to adjust to a running back role, had 93 yards on 11 carries, four receptions for 78 yards and 191 all-purpose yards. Jay was 5-of-12 passing for 92 yards and a TD, and he scored two touchdowns on the ground. Powering that offense was a line that did not give up a sack on the night.

Defensively, Myles Moon had 10 tackles and an interception, Yancey had 10 tackles, Grant Grossen had seven tackles, two forced fumbles and a blocked kick, James Schafer had six tackles and a blocked kick, and Skinner had six tackles.

Madison will try to win its second-straight game and third in the past four weeks when it hosts Mitchell on Friday for homecoming. The Blue Jackets come into the game just 1-4 on the season, but are fresh off a 56-0 win over Crawford County.

OTHER GAMES

Carroll County picked up a 20-6 win at Ludlow and Switzerland County lost 19-0 at Owen County on Friday night.

Carroll, now 2-3 on the season, travels to Shawnee on Friday while Switzerland, now 2-3, hosts Southside Home School on Friday.

Dominant Shane steers HomeStreet to perfect weekend

Team captures 11th national title

BY THE COURIER STAFF

There were no penalties this time to spoil the story, just a dominate performance by Jimmy Shane to stamp his name into the H1 Unlimited record books.

Shane was the fastest qualifier, won every heat he entered and set two course records while steering the U-1 Miss HomeStreet/Miss Madison to victory in the Bill Muncey Cup on Mission Bay in San Diego.

The two wins on the weekend — in the Showdown event on Saturday and main event on Sunday — pushed Shane’s career win total to 25, tying him with the late Dean Chenoweth for fourth on the sport’s all-time wins list. Only Dave Villwock (67 wins), Bill Muncey (62) and Chip Hanauer (61) have more career wins in the sport than Shane.

Shane also clinched his eighth National High Points driver’s title and Miss Madison Racing’s 11th National Team Title during the weekend. Miss Madison has won 11 of the past 14 season crowns and is second all-time to the Miss Budweiser teams’ 34 championships.

Unlike several past races this season, where Shane’s superior speed was negated by on-water penalties, Shane raced clean all weekend, preferring to stay outside to avoid contact with his competitors and concentrate on hitting the starting line on time.

The result was a performance in which he was rarely threatened. Only twice on the weekend did competitors challenge Shane for victory, and in each case they were pushed aside by the HomeStreet’s dominate speed and superior boat ride.

Julie Hooton

Jimmy Shane, driving the blue U-1 Miss HomeStreet/Miss Madison, and Jeff Bernard, in the gold U-91 Goodman Real Estate/Miss Madison, battle during the Bill Muncey Cup at San Diego on Saturday. Shane won the Showdown event on Saturday and the Bill Muncey Cup final on Sunday as part of a perfect weekend that pushed his career wins total to 25, tying him with the late Dean Chenoweth for fourth all-time. He also clinched the 2022 H1 driver and boat championships.

The weekend dominance started on Friday for Shane when he set a new course record by steering the HomeStreet to an average lap speed of 165.636 mph, the fastest speed recorded in the restricted era and breaking a mark set by Villock in 2011. He later pushed the boat to 168.589 mph in morning testing on Sunday.

With notice served of those speeds, Shane needed only to stay clean in heat racing. On Saturday, he out-dued Dustin Echols and the U-40 Miss Beacon Plumbing in the first Showdown match race and then held off a determined run by teammate Jeff Bernard in the U-91 Goodman Real Estate/Miss Madison to win the Showdown Final Heat. J. Michael Kelly placed third in the U-9 Miss Tri-Cities with Jamie Nilsen fourth in the U-11 Legend Yacht Transport.

It was during the match final that Shane picked up his second record of the weekend, posting a competition lap speed of 159.857 mph to break his own record set last year.

The two preliminary heats and final on Sunday were anti-climatic. Shane settled for lane three in all three heats and easily beat both Kelly and Bernard each time with. In the final heat, he cleared Kelly on the second lap and pulled away, winning the race by several roostertails.

Kelly finished second while Bernard, who had won the Grand Prix America event earlier in the day, finished third. Nilsen was a distant fourth and Echols, whose Beacon Plumbing broke a propeller during Saturday’s Showdown race, was forced to withdraw.

Kelly also picked up a pair of wins in match heat racing on Saturday.

Up-and-coming driver Dylan Runne took some test laps in Miss Madison Racing’s U-91 Goodman Real Estate on Saturday. Dunne later won the Pro-Lite Series race aboard the Pleasure Seekers.

Olivet scored two touchdowns in the fourth to take a 31-14 lead with 5:10 remaining in the game. Hanover scored quickly on a 1-yard run by Austin Oppel with 3:50 to go and then on a 4-yard touchdown pass from Matthew Weimer to John Peck with Peck's two-point conversion closing the gap to 31-28 with 43 seconds left.

"The ladies never once doubted that they could win another sectional for Madison, and even though we fell just short, they did their best to meet the standards that Coach (Shannon) Barger and I set," Madison coach Jake Shockley said. "Having three personal bests, our lowest nine-hole score, and lowest 18-hole score on the day that matters is a fantastic achievement."

Outside of winning the title, moving on to regionals for the 11th straight year is a very, very good consolation prize."

Madison got strong performances across the board, led by senior Grace Bronkella, who shot a personal-best 86 to finished second overall. Bronkella has led the Cubs all season after the graduation of star Keara Eder last year, and Shockley was pleased to see that carry over to the sectional.

"Grace has had an excellent career as a Madison Cub, and a runner-up finish is a nice cap to it. She shot a personal best 18 today and has been highly consistent this season," Shockley said. "She struggled early with the driver, which has been her Achilles' heel all season, but she switched to her hybrid off the tee and really dialed it in after a while."

Freshman Emmi Dowell carded a 95 while Aleigh Wilson shot a personal-best 108 and Riley Poling a personal-best 109. Lilly Fox finished with a 115.

Shawe had hoped to earn a regional berth as a team, but after the loss of No. 2 scorer Gia Craig a few weeks ago, the Hilltoppers were unable to finish in the top three, placing third with a 460. But Wells shot a 91, which was good for fifth overall, to punch her ticket to the regional.

Yolett Perez shot a 107, Bailey Kilgore a 121 and Cassidy Nott a 141 for the Hilltoppers.

Switzerland County finished seventh as a team with a 491. Lily Williams led the Pacers with a 110, Makenna Perkins had a 115, McKira Scudder a 132 and Brelynn Justice a 134.

Southwestern was unable to field a complete team and was led by Hannah Simpson, who shot a

Nanny's crush on dad may crush her

Dear Amy — I met "Ben" the first day I began working for his family as a nanny about a year ago. I felt an instant attraction, but quickly let it go because he's married, my boss, and I was married at the time. We had minimal interaction, so that helped, too. Fast-forward six months, and my husband and I separated after years of strain.

At this exact time, Ben began initiating conversation more often. My feelings for him grew stronger and stronger. After a couple months of conversation, intense eye contact, and Ben's giddiness, it became apparent to me the feelings may be mutual. This felt nice and was a welcome distraction while going through my divorce.

I want to know what Ben thinks and if the feelings truly are mutual. It doesn't help that he continues to send me mixed signals. I have researched what to do in this situation and nothing seems to help. I am worried that he's not just a distraction, but I have actually fallen in love.

I respect his wife, and care so much for his kids. I could never cross the line further than I already have.

Not being able to act on my feelings is getting so difficult for me that I am considering getting a new job. I am torn. Ultimately I am wondering, how do I keep my job and get over the heartbreak of liking someone who is unavailable? — Heartbroken

Dear Heartbroken — I'll start by affirming the strength of your emotions and your curiosity about his feelings.

Here's the tough part — Your emotions notwithstanding, this is a scenario where there is an inevitable loser — and it is you. It is ethically and morally wrong to pursue the married father of the children you are caring for. (It is just as wrong for him — but this is about you.)

Get another position. Within two weeks of leaving, your ardor will die down, you will start to realize how close you flew to the flame, and you will be justifiably proud that you did the right thing — or rather, that you did not do the wrong thing.

Dear Amy — I'm almost 50. I've been with my husband for 20 years. We are stable and very much in love. We have chosen to be polyamorous for the past five years.

We didn't tell my parents, but one Thanksgiving just before the pandemic I was going to have my partner of one year with me ("Steve"), and so I told my parents.

Mom hasn't taken it well. Steve feels as permanent to me as my husband does. Steve has no family himself to visit on the holidays. I refuse to leave him alone.

I've invited them to our home for Thanksgiving this year (where I get to decide who sits at the table), but what about Christmas? That's Mom's favorite holiday and she loves to decorate and host. I don't really do any of that.

AMY DICKINSON

We're not making out in front of her (we don't even hold hands or flirt). We're just existing, but she refuses to have him in her home.

I've thought about staying at Mom's while my husband and partner get a hotel room nearby. Hubs doesn't like staying at my parents and would jump at the chance, but Mom's feelings would be hurt and at the end of the day Steve would still be alone while we're at my mom's.

I want to spend the holidays with my mom. She may not have many of them left, but I don't want to leave someone I love alone on the holiday.

I've tried to talk to her about it, but she shuts down. I don't know what to do. Can you offer any guidance? — Two Directions

Dear Two Directions — The good thing about Christmas is that it really envelops a season, with at least two good opportunities to gather — Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Many families split things down the middle during the holidays, and so if you want to be with your mom for Christmas dinner, then go there and enjoy yourself. "Steve" can hang with your husband during the event.

You can tell her, "My husband would have come, but we didn't want to leave Steve alone on Christmas."

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Apply your shrewd head for business to search for ways to increase the joys and pleasures in your daily life. Study creative ways to make calculated risks worthwhile. This is a good time to ask for favors at work.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — If you don't schedule some time for yourself, no one else will. It may seem that your social life is compromised when tasks and responsibilities fall on your shoulders. Be more efficient by adopting new technologies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Adjust your attitude by finding a way to put a favorable spin on a problem. Get past obstacles by remaining confident that an answer will present itself in time. A partner or loved one could offer sound advice and unfailing support.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Pick up the phone and apply your networking skills. It is possible to form powerful connections by reminding people of your mutual interests. Focus on a new friendship or association with a social group.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Achieving security and a more fulfilling future can be either an issue or an incentive. Implementing some small economies and cost-cutting techniques might begin to pay off. Take pride in having a sensible savings plan.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — You may sparkle and dazzle everyone you meet with your sociable style. However, coworkers and those in close connection may seem too busy to give you the attention you might crave so step up and love and validate yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Using good manners will be welcomed by others. Social gatherings might require special protocols, but you can enjoy a crowd where you can relax and discuss the latest trends. Wrap a romantic partner around your little finger.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Dip into a storehouse of tactfulness to handle a drama queen or someone who hijacks the spotlight. Your performance should not be criticized if you follow the rules, complete your duties and pay your bills on time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You understand your conscience should dictate everything you do. You won't just flip a coin when there is a choice between doing the right or wrong thing. You may receive recognition for being a team player.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You do a great job, but sometimes you need reassurances. Remind yourself that if you haven't met your goals, you may be able to adjust the timetable. Exercise self-discipline when handling the budget and surprise expenses.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Ignorance is only bliss when there isn't some fine print to review. This may be a good time to socialize with mentors or experienced family members who can advise you. Focus on ways to conserve your money.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Work on re-aligning with your sense of purpose or upgrade it to the next level. Be alert to an important opportunity to do something worthwhile even if your head is up in the clouds looking for inspiration.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You are likely to be noticed if you strive to be pleasant. Don't be surprised if the new people who enter your life have something worthwhile and timely to impart. Open your mind to new ideas and your heart will follow.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You build your power when you face difficulties instead of trying to escape them. People could be willing to forgive your mistakes and give you the benefit of the doubt. Deflect arguments by carving out a suitable compromise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — It is not necessary to use a chainsaw to slice a tomato. There may be a tendency to be heavy-handed when a more delicate touch will give better results. Hold off on making new investments and major financial decisions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — It's harder to get ahead if you keep your foot on the brakes. Try not to let the fear of the unknown hold you back. Your wise financial strategies can be enhanced when you work side by side in an ambitious partnership.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Making up isn't hard to do when there is an ideal opportunity to make amends or smooth over rifts. Someone might give you the cold shoulder but might warm up when you prove you will give the extra effort to cooperate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Focus on making your future manifest your dreams. A loved one may share their whimsical dreams and ambitious goals. Hurt feelings might result if someone doubts your desire to work to achieve shared plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Your cheerful demeanor could prompt some invitations and offers, but too much socializing could prevent you from completing your work. Don't start a new romance but focus on creative planning and networking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — The outcome may shift for the better if you zero in on using foresight and wisdom to plan ahead. Reexamine a retirement or savings plan that can enrich your future. Find time to explore creative ideas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Don't restrain your enthusiasms. A broadminded outlook can give you a radiance that other people find hard to resist. This is a good time to meet someone who can show you how to be wise about investments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Some people may not say what they mean, or your plans and determination to succeed might not matter to them. Slow down without coming to a stop. Work on your own or wait until you find new helpers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Share from the heart; a partner or loved one should return the generosity many times over. Help someone to understand why you need fewer intrusions and interruptions so they can respect your boundary.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Inspiration can be useful, so take notes. You may be uplifted by someone you hear, something you read or something you see. Make your own life more worthwhile by seeking out a greater purpose beyond yourself.

NEED KNOWS NO SEASON

Sacked Burrow, Bengals 1st AFC champ to start 0-2 since '99

BY STEPHEN HAWKINS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

ARLINGTON, Texas — Cincinnati Bengals quarterback Joe Burrow, like his coach, talked about how there is still a lot of season to be played and that every team will go through a two-game losing streak.

“Unfortunately for us, it’s the first two games of the season,” coach Zac Taylor said.

With Burrow getting sacked six more times, after going down seven times when losing the opener in overtime, the defending AFC champion Bengals lost 20-17 on Sunday when the Dallas Cowboys — without quarterback Dak Prescott — won on Brett Maher’s 50-yard field goal on the final play of regulation.

Burrow’s take: “0-2 is tough, but there’s no panic.”

Still, the Bengals are the first AFC team since Denver in 1999 to start with consecutive losses after going to the Super Bowl the previous season. The Broncos were coming off consecutive Super Bowl victories and started 0-4 after John Elway retired.

Cincinnati has Burrow back and four new starters on the offensive line in an effort to give the young quarterback better protection. He was sacked an NFL-high 51 times during the regular season last year, and then 19 more times in their four postseason games.

When asked how uncomfortable Burrow looked in the pocket, Taylor said he didn’t sense that, though he did acknowledge, “I think we’ve given up too many sacks, absolutely.”

Burrow finished 24-of-36 passing for 199 yards without an interception after four picks in the opener. But the longest play went for 19 yards and his only touchdown was a 5-yarder to Tee Higgins with 3:51 left, before a throw to Tyler Boyd for the 2-point conversion that tied the game at 17-17.

That tying drive took nearly nine minutes, covering 83 yards in 19 plays.

“That’s how it’s supposed to look. That’s what we need to get the whole game,” Burrow said. “So whatever we’ve got to do to move the chains on third down, find those completions and get those chains moving, we’re going to have a lot of drives like that the way defenses are playing us. So we’ve got to bank that one and remember how that feels.”

With all the pressure Burrow has been under, there really is no time to take deep shots down the field.

“That could be the case,” receiver Ja’Marr Chase said. “We’ve got to take some shots still. ... We’ve got to get the protection down, too, so that’s the only way we could take shots.”

For the second week in a row, the Bengals overcame a 14-point deficit to tie the game, only to lose on a long field goal. Chris Boswell kicked a 53-yarder to give the Pittsburgh Steelers a 23-20 victory in the opener. That came after the Bengals missed an extra point that would have won it in regulation.

Taylor insisted he isn’t concerned about the slow start by the offense and his team.

“No, because people are going to look back at two games last year, and say something very similar,” the coach said. “These reactions always happen when you lose a game. It’s a long season, that’s what we told players. We’re just going to take ownership of these losses. ... Our guys are going to continue to improve and play better and get some wins.”

Colts no-show in return to Jacksonville, get blanked 24-0

BY MARK LONG
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The Indianapolis Colts waited eight months for a return trip to Jacksonville, a chance to prove last year’s season finale was a fluke and a chance to end a head-scratching and embarrassing skid in the AFC South series.

They openly welcomed the opportunity to bury the memories of last year’s debacle against the Jaguars and move on from last week’s disappointment against Houston.

How did they handle it? Well, they were essentially no-shows.

Indianapolis was shut out for the third time in the past six seasons — all in Jacksonville — with the latest one a 24-0 drubbing that has to, at the very least, create speculation about coach Frank Reich’s future with the franchise.

“It’s a long season,” Reich said. “We’ll take our medicine for the pathetic performance today, coaches and players. We’ll see how things stack up.”

The Colts (0-1-1) didn’t stack up with Jacksonville (1-1) at all Sunday.

Matt Ryan was sacked five times, pressured way more often and threw three interceptions. Ryan and cornerback Stephon Gilmore were supposed to help get the Colts over the hump in 2022. With those additions, Indy was picked by some to win the division.

Instead, the Colts are winless after two AFC South games.

“I’ve got to play better,” Ryan said. “There’s no doubt about that. I think as a group we all have to play better, too. It’s disappointing when you put in the work during the week and you come out and you don’t play the way that you’re capable of playing.”

Ryan completed 16 of 30 passes for 195 yards, finishing with a passer rating of 34 — the third lowest of his career. His jersey was covered in dirt and grass stains after losing to Jacksonville for the first time in five meetings.

“I’ve got my (butt) kicked before, I know that much,” Ryan said. “It’s all about how you respond. You get up off the floor. It happens in this league. There’s good players across the board. Every week is going to be tough. It happens to you sometimes, but one can’t turn into two.”

“You have to pick yourself back up, have a great week of preparation and make sure we have a better performance next week.”

The Colts played without three starters: All-Pro line-backer Shaquille Leonard and receivers Michael Pittman and Alec Pierce. Losing Pittman exposed Ryan’s receiving group, and Jacksonville took advantage.

The Jags loaded the box and held Jonathan Taylor to 54 yards rushing. Ryan was harassed behind an offensive line that was beaten early and often. And Indy failed to score against Jacksonville for the third time in six seasons; it also happened in 2017 and 2018.

Equally telling about this series: the Jaguars are 6-30 in their past 36 games, and four of those victories came against the Colts.

The latest one was never in doubt and gave coach Doug Pederson his first win with his new team.

Reich fell to 0-5 in Jacksonville, a dubious skid that surely won’t sit well with team owner Jim Irsay. Indy blew a chance to make the playoffs last season by losing the finale in Jacksonville, and Irsay made his disappointment clear at the time.
